

SECRET

CIA HAS NO OBJECTION TO DECLASSIFICATION AND/OR RELEASE OF THIS DOCUMENT

The Washington Post
20 July 1968

Lawyer Arrives in Memphis, Expected to See Ray in Jail

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray, placed behind the most elaborate security screen ever seen here, awaits the first meeting with his lawyer since being removed from a London jail.

The lawyer, Arthur Hanes of Birmingham, Ala., arrived by plane from New York shortly before midnight last night, quickly got into a car and drove to a downtown hotel escorted by six policemen.

Hanes told newsmen here he had talked briefly with Ray in London shortly before his client was handed over to United States authorities for the Thursday night flight to Memphis.

Ray in Third Floor

After being searched and passed through cordons of heavily armed, helmeted sheriff's deputies, Hanes presumably will be admitted to the third-floor cell block where Ray, charged with the April 4 assassination of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., is confined in the Shelby County Jail.

Quarter-inch steel plates cut off light and air from the windows, and the hum of newly installed air conditioners provides a quiet background for the ground rules for the trial, sharply limiting news and photo coverage and forbidding all the principals — and even employees of the court building — from making any comments about the case. A copy of this order had not been served on Hanes when he arrived in New York from London.

In an interview at Kennedy Airport in New York, Hanes alluded to "powerful forces at work" to divide Americans against themselves.

"It has been shown that there is such a thing as an international Communist conspiracy and you must admit they are working in this country," he said.

Ray gave up his fight for extradition from Britain earlier in the week and his sudden flight back to the United States came within hours after the extradition order was signed.

In London, meanwhile, police said they had evidence Ray may have robbed a bank. They said the evidence is fingerprints on a "give me cash" note handed a bank teller.

The note was handed to a teller in the Trustee Savings Bank in London's Fulham District on June 4—two months to the day after King was killed. The man escaped with about 100 pounds—$240—in five-pound notes.

When Ray was arrested four days later he had 60 pounds in five-pound notes. He also had just bought a ticket to Brussels.

A description of the robber given police by the bank manager matches Ray.

The evidence was turned up as Scotland Yard prepared a dossier in an attempt to track down any hint in London of conspiracy in King's assassination.

British detectives said they could find nothing to indicate Ray had any association with possible confederates, political contacts or anyone else.

Some time soon America
as a whole are going to ha
to get the word to Washing that laws governing race re tions are going to have to applied equally. This me that if white citizens m quality for jobs so must ored citizens. It means the ed
by tem
one rain
ethn
sta-

CIA HISTORICAL REVIEW PROGRAM
RELEASE IN FULL

7-20-68